

Noce Test Review for the National Opticianry Competency Exam: A Comprehensive Guide

The National Opticianry Competency Exam (NOCE) is a standardized exam that is required for certification as an optician in the United States. The exam is administered by the National Board of Examiners in Opticianry (NBE) and covers a wide range of topics related to opticianry, including:

- Ophthalmic optics
- Dispensing optics
- Contact lenses
- Ocular anatomy and physiology
- Ocular pathology

The NOCE is a challenging exam, but it is also an important one. Passing the exam is essential for obtaining your opticianry license and practicing as an optician in the United States.

The Noce Test Review is a comprehensive resource that can help you prepare for the NOCE. The review is available in two formats: online and print.
